Norman Conard is an American educator and director of the Life in a Jar, Irena Sendler Foundation, Kansas. He is the recipient of the National Civil Rights Award and a member of the National Teachers Hall of Fame for creating projects that teach respect and understanding through historical examples. Norman Conard, along with his students, created a theatrical production entitled Life in a Jar. It told the life story of Irena Sendler, a woman who rescued many Jewish children from the ghettos.

Kristallnacht marks the night when a massive, coordinated state sponsored attack was carried out against Jewish homes, synagogues and businesses throughout Germany and Austria on the evening of November 9th, 1938.

Life in a Jar: The Irena Sendler Story Directed by Norman Conard | Live Performance

In the fall of 1999, a rural Kansas teacher, Norman Conard, encouraged three students to work on a year-long National History Day project which would meet their classroom motto, "He who changes one person, changes the world entire."

The students wrote a performance (Life in a Jar) and the play received great attention from the press and media. They have performed this program all over North America and in Europe.

Life in a Jar is the inspirational story of Irena Sendler, who knocked on Jewish doors in the Warsaw ghetto and, in Sendler's own words, "tried to talk the mothers out of their children".

Presented with the support of the Department of German, Dalhousie University

Presented in partnership with the Consulate of the United States, Halifax, Canada
